Memo: Election 2016

Trump won the election even more so at the very end because of a late celebrity endorsement for Hillary, Middle America, whether justified or not, wasn't feeling that artist due to highly political performance in a large Conservative arena, which swayed the last of that demographic. It was the kiss of death, so to speak.

It was pretty evident how that demographic felt. That's why I couldn't understand that political decision. I still don't, not if you wanted to win. Trump went against black lives matter which forced Hillary Clinton to endorse them. Now, where ever you stand with BLM is irrelevant because the bigger point is that is what happened.

The news was constantly reported about the country being at war... especially with the BLM. Minorities protesting and unrest, which made conservatives uncomfortable. The demographics in the polls in 2016 reflected that. So bring in the Alpha white male (Trump). Now that's not racist, it's just a description, and it worked.

Interestingly enough, during the time of the election, the news would CONSTANTLY report police brutality and protests... why? Well, who didn't vote for Hillary?

A certain demographic of white women. Why is that? Well, Trump went against BLM and that made that demographic of young white women feel 'safe' Now, Hillary had no choice (don't read too much into that) but to vie for the black vote. Then you had the bogus brainless online influencers telling people of color their votes didn't matter.

Which is why I constantly say, stay away from people who always have these imaginary "people who don't want you to have success, a voice or vote." Yes, there are obstacles for everyone and even more so for minorities, however, if you have your mind made up that you can't attain or will be inevitably defeated, then that's self sabotage. Life is not easy but progress and success, all start in the mind.

The thought that you will never attain such based on your race or economical circumstances is essentially cognitive poison to the point of progressive paralysis. That's Jim Crow ideology. The entire point is, there is less power for the citizens when in division which is why we must stick together regardless of beliefs/race for our future.

Our children deserve to feel safe at night. I would never want my children up at night worried like it's the 60's. We are regressing and how can we pass on this planet to our kids when we have done so little to ensure their safety on it?

Why didn't anyone come to Trump's inauguration? Well, because BOTS don't have feet. Twitter should take away Trump's fake followers... better yet, why didn't they prevent his bots from the illusion of popularity/agenda pushing? He used bots to make his asinine "ideas" popular and he played the middle class against Hollywood, who had ironically revived his lifeless enterprise.

He used bots & fake news to win. We don't hear about police related shootings as much anymore. Whatever has the most "likes" people will believe. He used fear and digital illusion. It's not #covfefe, it's fraud. Just because something has a lot of likes doesn't make it true. Just because you like an entertainer doesn't make them qualified to be in office.

Trump is obsessed with fake news because he is the personification of fake news. He also, utilized it to win the election. Next he will be after the black vote.

[Update September 22, 2018]

It is so important to research everything on your own. Social media is just a simulation, however over the last two years I've learned that someone people only exist within this vortex. They negate whatever truth escapes beyond their digital walls, but life wasn't designed to solely exist within the matrix. Yet, some people refuse to disconnect. Your voice and most importantly your VOTE does matter.

Get out there and vote.
